Teaching Evaluations

Berlitz Japan, Inc. - Teaching evaluators wrote: ". . . excellent; gifted; . . . With an intense interest in the personal development of his students and a great sensitivity to their individual needs and cultural background . . ."

Musika Lessons.com – Michael Franklin, an adult learner, said: "Recently I have rededicated myself to learning how to play the guitar. I have used guitar instructors in the past and can honestly say Greg Chako is the best I have worked with. His teaching style makes learning to play the guitar fun, and he keeps me motivated to practice in between our sessions. I recommend Greg with full confidence to anyone who is serious about learning how to play guitar. His passion and dedication to his work will be obvious to anyone who utilizes his service."

Chako Productions, Singapore, USA - Yap Shu Mei, Violinist and Director of Mandeville Conservatory of Music, said: "I was already playing classical violin professionally when I met Greg Chako, but I was apprehensive about improvisation. Greg gave me just the right materials to work on and also helped me gain the confidence I lacked. Now I can play jazz and popular forms of music with a greater sense of assurance and enjoyment."

Patrick Teng, Guitar enthusiast and part-time instructor, said, "Greg Chako taught me everything I need to know about improvisation in music. Regardless of genre, he has an uncanny way of breaking complex concepts into simple theory that anyone could understand. After lessons with him over the years, my skills improved and I got a part-time job as a guitar instructor with the Cristofori Music School and have been teaching there for 3 years now."

American William Gathright, a professional bassist, said, "I'm a former student of the great Ron Carter. After meeting Greg Chako in Asia, I continued my jazz studies with him. Greg filled in knowledge gaps that have been key to my musical growth and was especially instrumental in helping me to understand and utilize "melodic minor" harmony. Playing and studying with Greg has truly created opportunities for me; as a result, I am currently involved with the "SINGJAZZ" festival and am one of the most in-demand bassists in Singapore."

Yvette Atienza, Jazz Singer and Head Vocal Coach at Verve Music and Dance School, said, "Early on in my career, when I committed myself to developing fully as a jazz singer, Greg was very supportive and helpful in offering constructive feedback, especially when it came to repertoire choices and musicianship pointers. In addition, observing him conduct his own business activities – especially with regard to procuring and maintaining gigs – proved especially enlightening and informative for my own foray into the world of music business."

Derek Short, professional American bassist and bandleader in Japan, said, "Greg has an immense knowledge of Harmony and improvisatory tools and more importantly, knows how to simplify complex ideas into an easy-to-understand language. His teaching style is down-to-earth."

University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center Director, Dr. Frederick Tillis, said, "Greg Chako displays an outstanding leadership role and ability to work with students of varying and diverse backgrounds . . ." and has, ". . . Energetic, industrious organizational skills and an adept ability in matters of arts business."

CDs

My World on Six Strings, 2013 - “. . . a total orchestra! The complete package . . .” - Gene Bertoncini

Everybody's Got a Name, 2008 – “Greg Chako is the consummate musician . . . nothing less than outstanding! Sophisticated, cool guitar work in combination with a superb cast. Simply marvelous!” - All About Jazz

Paint a Picture, Tell a Story, 2007 - “Colorful, percussive, straight-ahead jazz compositions, bright ensembling with horns, and fluid, emotionally dynamic guitar improvising; many emotional hooks; a transcendent universalism that goes beyond the usual geographic boundaries of jazz.” – iTunes Preview

Where We Find Ourselves, 2005 - “A reality check on so many levels. What kind of balls does it take to record a double album of all original jazz in four days and make it sound like a classic Bluenote, World Pacific or Verve date? They must have grown up eating Rudy Van Gelder sessions for breakfast to absorb this kind of vibe. Chako straddles being familiar and unique in the same interval with such style that you're sure you've been here before but you know you haven't . . . simply a delightful heaping helping of cool jazz that moves and grooves and is sure to win you over before the first track is over. Why is this guy recording for his own label? You put the machine behind this cat and you could crash Amazon's servers.” – Chris Spector, Midwest Record Recap

Integration II, 2001 - “Transcends geographic boundaries and cultures; communicates the happiness and friendship that all music should provide; well-crafted tunes, harmonically strong, with catchy, memorable melodies (unlike many contemporary offerings today). Exceptional! Thoughtfully created, perfectly executed; a positive musical statement from an extremely talented composer and performer.” – Vince Lewis, Just Jazz Guitar

Integration, 2000 - “Hard Bop mixed with rhythms and sounds of the Far East, Latin, exotic sounds of the Australian outback, blues, jazz funk, and a lovely ballad . . . recalls those exciting hard blowing small group sessions of the 1960s. Imaginative application of tempo and harmony filled with some unexpected jagged rhythmic diversions guaranteed to keep listener attention. Recommended!” - David Nathan, All Music Guide

Integration I & II: “. . . the culmination of many studio hours, tremendous discipline, concentration, and the ability to employ all musical strengths in every composition; A jazz mosaic painted with the very best of cultural, ethnic, and musical sensibilities; a striking sumptuousness and extensiveness in the music that is rarely found in any genre . . . of the world's best kept secrets. An essential jazz experience.” – Keith Hannaleck, JazzReviews
“. . . Full of nuances, integrating fusion, blues, and swing. His guitar shines and he creates a new style, breathing exotic jazz-ethno music full of spirit and solid musical foundation” - Jazz Dimensions, Germany

The Greg Chako Trio (and friends) Live at Raffles, 1998 - “. . . burnished, luminous guitar lines throbbing along with crisp backing - negotiated with agile skill - laid back vocals and lovely guitar.” - Jazz Journal, U.K.

Sudden Impact, 1996 - “Old standbys spiced up with Latin rhythms, experiencing a sudden ubiquity and fresh sound. Originals sound contemporary, colored with understated funk, backbeats, and interesting structures well worth exploring.” – Cadence, USA

Everything I Love, 1994 - “The technical constraints of playing with his thumb nurture a lyricism and maturity seldom found. Everything about this CD, from the choice of material to the sensitive support, oozes class. His tone is warm, yet incisive. It's a refreshing CD, with no meaningless flights of technical virtuosity or unnecessary electronic processing.” - Just Jazz Guitar, USA
